Forgotten Books, 2018. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Autobiography of a Spanish Adventurer Standing in the midst of a tide of collectivism such as the world has never before seen, most of us still feel a warm thrill of pleasure when we read of some foot-loose, red blooded human animal whose energy was equalled only by his social freedom. The blond beast in our town is a wretched neighbor, but let him be transplanted to a distant century and clime, and we experience a clandestine admiration for his spirit and his works that bears no relation to our twentieth century standard of private behavior. Today only nations as a whole dare to be thoroughly mean, and they are slowly nearing the point of circumspection. So it is when we wish to stir the Adam in our blood by the contemplation of some splendid explosion of human force, we turn to Cortes, Cellini, or even Casanova. The unsought alliteration seems to suggest that the letter C may be the natural initial of an adventurous Spirit crossed with an itch for publicity. I cite as witness Alonso de Contreras, whose autobiography has been unearthed and published, after reposing nearly four centuries under the dust of a Madrid library. Contreras was a professional fighter on land and sea, who rose from nothing to be a Commander of the Knights of Malta, no slight achievement in itself. Not one of the shrewd climbers, he never thought large and never reached high diplomatic posts. He looked but a short distance in advance; he was an insubordinate swashbuckler, a dreadnought captain, afraid neither of man nor devil, yet with a code of honor of his own, and a dash of piety that would...
